I'm Free

Don't grieve for me, for now I'm free
I'm following the path God laid for me.
I took his hand when I heard him call;
I turned my back and left it all.
I could not stay another day,
To laugh, to love, to work and play.
Tasks left undone must stay that way;
I found that place at the close of day.
If my parting has left a void.
Then fill it with remembered joy.
A friendship shared a laugh, a kiss;
Ah yes, these things, I too will miss.
Be not burdened with times of sorrow
I wish you the sunshine of tomorrow.
My life's been full, I savoured much;
Good friends, good time, a loved ones touch.
Perhaps my time seems all to brief;
Don't lengthen it now with undue grief.
Lift up your heart and share with me,
God wanted me now,
He set me free

Obituary

Charles L. Brown, the Patriarch of our family has earned his wings. Sunrise on September 8, 1936, in Sparta, GA. Sunset on December 10, 2022, in Columbus, OH. Our earthly father's Tinman like body had attempted to contact the beloved on several occasions, however the Master continued to test him very similar to that of a modern-day Job. Unlike the fictional character from the Wizard of OZ, Daddy's heart although also damaged, was probably larger than his body.

He had always been unselfish and thoughtful, however as he aged his thoughts began to waiver. His innermost thoughts and concerns began to surface. Because he cared so much for his closest family, his opinions came from his own understanding of right or wrong, determined by his correctness and/or temperature with very little compromise.

Then came Jesus! His last days provided resolve to the family. His words were kind, where he was able to make amends.

Daddy, a true believer, often provided his own parable with the respect to the word. He who knows, and knows he knows, is wise follow him (Jesus). Transversely, he who he knows, but knows not that he knows, is a Fool (Satan). Always, trust God! God Love Him. God Keep Him

*I am the resurrection and the life: He that believeth in me though he were dead yet shall he live.
And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die.*
