Reflections of Life

Saquaiza Michelle Martin who was affectionately known as "Qua" or Butterbean" was gifted into this world to Kenya Williams and Cosaa Martin Sr. on May 21, 1995.

Being the only girl, Qua wore her toughness well, but her soft side shined brighter than any light when it came to kids, and those she loved "the mostest" as she would say. You only knew she was ill if she told you or if you were in her presence. She was diagnosed at an early age of 13 with diabetes. She didn't let that affect her. 10 years later, she became ill with the doctors not knowing until 3 years later with Lupus and heart failure. Qua never let her sickness get her down and she kept a smile on her face.

Qua was a member of Triedstone Missionary Baptist Church.

She is preceded in death by grandmothers, Blanche Edgerton, Ruth E. Martin, Ella Buford, and Janice Foster; grandfather, Naamon Johnson; aunts, Luwanna Johnson, Nama McCray, Lisa Frazier, Latonya Martin, Janice Williams; uncles, James Edgerton, Keith Williams Jr., Micheal and Alphonso Johnson; Pops, (Willie Kimbro).

To carry on her legacy, mother, Kenya Williams; father, Cosaa Martin Sr.; son, Tyreik Jr.; brothers, Cosaa Martin Jr., Kaveion Haisaun, Kyron and Kayden Martin, Jakwuan, Willie and Willie Kimbro; special sisters, Mikayla and Anaysia Kimbro and Honesty Martin; grandfathers, Elder Keith Williams Sr., Milton Frazier and Claude Galloway Jr.; grandmothers, Gwen Galloway, Pamela Martin and Alice Blackwell; special great great aunt, Gwen Williams; special cousins, TayVonna Johnson, Tiaeshia Martin, Ke'Sia Williams and Lexy Lawson. Qua also leaves behind a host of aunts, uncles, cousins and Godchildren.
